Explosion Broke Windows
In Many Houses—Was Heard For a Mile.

Baldwin Works' Strikers
Threaten to March on City Hall.

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS.
Philadelphia, March 9.—A trolley car was dynamited tonight at Germantown avenue and Logan street in Germantown. The explosion lifted the car off the track and set it down cross-ways with a crash that smashed every window pane and hurled twenty passengers against the seats and sides of the car. The concussion broke window glass in dozens of the houses along the avenue and produced a panic feeling in the neighborhood that lasted for hours. It was remarkable that none of the people in the car were seriously hurt.

Apparently a dynamite cartridge with a percussion cap had been fixed to a rail. The roar of the explosion was heard a mile away.

When the car was directly in front of the home of Dr. William F. Heaton at 4955 Germantown avenue, it struck the dynamite cartridge. The motor-man was thrown back against the car front so hard that the back of his head was bruised and he was stunned for some minutes.

On account of the rioting last night at Frankford, 250 extra policemen were sent to that section tonight and will be kept on duty there for ten days.

An almost certain clash tomorrow between the union labor forces and the police was prevented by the refusal of Horace Fogel, president of the Philadelphia National League baseball club to let the strikers have the use of his ball park for a mass meeting. The union leaders announced tonight that they had issued a call for all the strikers to meet at the ball park and make a "peaceable" demonstration. The director of public safety, Henry Clay, forbade the use of the ball park for a mass meeting.

The committee of ten refused to back down and sent out word that the meeting would most certainly be held. Mr. Fogel cut the knot by revoking his promise to the strikers that they could use the ball park. He made the promise in return for their assurance that union men employed in improvements on the club grounds would not be called out.

There is, though the possibility of serious trouble if the men who struck today at the Baldwin works make good their declaration to march to the City Hall cheering the union. There are upwards of 2,000 of these men on strike, big husky fellows, who would as soon fight as not. They have plans to make a demonstration to show their sympathy with the unions. The police are preparing to break up any such demonstration.

CLAY'S STATEMENT DENIED.
Philadelphia, March 10.—It was learned at 1 o'clock this morning that Director Fogel of the Philadelphia baseball team had withdrawn his permission for the strikers to hold a mass meeting in the ball park today, was not correct.

The baseball management says that the strikers still have their permission to hold the meeting notwithstanding Mr. Clay's statement that the meeting shall not be held.

Mr. and Mrs. Knox Use En-

Arrival In Providence.

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS.
Providence, R. I., March 9.—Seated in one big arm chair in their suite, 141 Benefit street today, Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Knox, Jr., pleaded for fair play.

The youthful elopers arrived from Washington this morning and went to their rooms to talk over the situation.

While they were discussing plans for the future they patted each other on the face, kissed, hugged and gave other demonstrations of their love which they say prompted their elopement.

"It is not true," said young Knox, "that father in anger fired me out of the house. There was not a semblance of anger and our interview, while brief, gives me strong hope for a speedy reconciliation."

Father replied, "I am married, and I am sorry that you are married. I am sorry that you are married that you took the step that you did. Now that you are married it will be up to you to shift for yourself."

"I knew what that meant and with all my further parleying I started for Providence with my dear little wife, whom I love so dearly."

"Don't I, Dolly?" he queried of the woman.

"Yes, you do and don't I love you and am I not happy?" the bride answered.

"I have got a little fortune of my own."

MAIL CARRIER'S BODY FOUND

George Reed of Canal
Dover Missing Since
November 14.

WALKED OVER ROUTE

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS.
Canal Dover, March 9.—The body of George Reed, the carrier who has been missing from his home near Canal Dover since November 14, was found in the Ohio canal Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock by Clarence Lawson and Oakley Lee.

The young men, who are residents of Canal Dover, were walking along the canal bank about two miles south of town when they saw the head and shoulders floating above the water. The body was taken to Worm & Scheffer's undertaking establishment and was identified by William Reed, brother of the dead man. It was badly decomposed and identification was made by means of a razor and pocketbook found in the dead man's pocket.

Reed left home mysteriously on Sunday evening, November 14, and since that time his parents have made every effort to find him. Advertisements were inserted in the papers of Cleveland and other cities, his picture was sent to all parts of the country and Sugar Creek and the Tuscarawas river were dragged for a considerable distance. It is supposed that the body was carried to the canal from the creek at some time during the recent high water.

Reed carried the mail on rural route No. 4 from Canal Dover. He was a noted pedestrian and unlike other carriers always walked over his route. Nothing unusual was noticed in his actions previous to his disappearance.

The duel was one of five the deputy brought on his hands through a speech in the chamber in which he attacked two women whose relatives challenged him, and in which he also attacked Gen. Prudente personally.

The duel resulted in Chiesia receiving a wound in the face.

Chicago, N. Y., March 9.—It was the brightest and sunniest day of the year thus far, the sky that were of the most delicate blue, the clouds were feathery and white and the surrounding mountains were the most beautiful on the day when Thomas C. Platt was buried on the heights of Evergreen cemetery overlooking the Susquehanna river.

Away up there with the Susquehanna racing its shining course far below, the once mighty political warrior, removed from the conflicts, the glories, the defeats and sorrows of life, lies surrounded by four generations of Platts.

This village, his birthplace 77 years ago, has striven to do him genuine honor. All the schools, factories, shops and saloons were closed during the funeral services in the First Presbyterian church where, as a youth, Senator Platt sang in the choir.

Early today, the members of the New York Republican congress delegation, arrived from Washington. With them was Charles G. Bennett, secretary of the United States senate in charge of a massive wreath of white hyacinths from President and Mrs. Taft. It was especially changed by the President and Mrs. Taft, said Mr. Bennett, "to place this wreath upon Senator Platt's casket myself."

And Mr. Bennett did. Leaving his brother Republicans at the Alhambra house, Mr. Bennett was taken to the church where Mr. Platt's body lay in state and there Mr. Bennett performed his mission. There were great mounds of white lilies and orchids from Senator and Mrs. C. M. Depeue, granddaughters and lilies from the New York state Republican congress delegation, a standing cross of orchids from the New York legislature and scores of floral remembrances from Abraham Lodge of Maine and from friends in New York, Chicago and other cities and towns from the citizens of this place.

Up to 10 o'clock hundreds of friends, including the school children, the Republican county committee of Toga and visitors from the neighboring towns passed the casket.

The congress delegation from the state comprised Representatives Dwight, Fassett, Law, O'Brien, Bennett, Durey, Goulden, Driscoll and Vreeland. The legislative delegation including many senators and assemblymen.

Columbus, O., March 9.—John A. Violet, a Columbus grocer of independent tendencies, appeared before the exclusive probe committee and threw the searchlight of publicity on the methods adopted by the Retail Grocers' association of Columbus to show their disapproval of grocers who refused to join the association and maintain its scale of prices.

After telling the promoters of the warning he received from the West Jefferson Creamery company, threatening to quit selling to him unless he sold their product at association prices, Mr. Violet said:

"One of the most annoying experiences we have is with the G. W. Robinson company. We have sugar from this company in our pots and sell it below the grocers' association price. One day when we were going to have a sale our sugar did not arrive until after dark. The sale was over. The Robinson company informed us that a wheel had come off their wagon and that delayed the delivery."

"Well, that wheel continued coming off so much that now when we order sugar we caution the Robinson company not to put our goods on the wagon with the bad wheel. Of course the wheel never did come off, for we interviewed their drivers and learned the truth."

In concluding his testimony Violet said, "when the grocers' association asked me to join I asked what advantages would accrue to me. The secretary of the association said I would share their one big advantage that all members had, namely the profits resulting from the high prices maintained by the association in Columbus."

When I refused to join I was told that I would have trouble and all the troubles I had followed that conference.

"It looks as though we have established that the independent grocers' association has been flagrantly working to control prices of foodstuffs," said Senator Williams, chairman of the probe committee.

BIG COLLEGES TO REVIVE OLD BASKETBALL LEAGUE

New York, March 9.—A meeting of representatives of four university basketball teams was held today at the Knickerbocker hotel, with the idea of discussing the revival of the old intercollegiate basketball league. Yale, Princeton, Penn and Columbia were represented.

Columbia by C. W. Catlett and W. M. McGowan, Pennsylvania by Ralph Morgan and Powell Browning, Yale by James Flannery and J. E. Roland and Princeton by F. R. Claven and Blackburn Hughes.

There was a discussion of a tentative schedule, including these four as members, but nothing definite in the way of an organization could be done by those present today because of the need of referring back everything first to athletic associations and later to faculty athletic committees.

There was expressed that Cornell might be put in and that Harvard might later on take up the game again and reenter the league, when formed. There seemed to be some anxiety about these two universities. This will be determined at a meeting to be held on April 1.

There is much likelihood of N. Y. U., of Pennsylvania or other strong teams of the sort joining this association.

NEGRO DIES AT HANDS OF MOB

Saves Self From Strangulation By Grabbing
Rope But Expires
Later.

FOUGHT POLICE

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS.
Cleveland, March 9.—A negro, named the rope, was strangled by a mob, today, after a struggle in the hands of a rope placed around his neck by a mob. He hung thus for 20 minutes.

Somewhere in the mob pulled on the negro's head. The rope broke and the mob fell to the ground, shouting. He died an hour later, the members of the mob holding around the body.

The lynching of the negro followed an attack on the part of Patrolman Slack to collect a small debt. The negro refused to pay. A dispute followed. Suddenly the patrolman attacked the negro, and a mob of about 20 men gathered around him.

When the patrolman's gun was snatched the negro grabbed the policeman by the throat, threw him to the ground and made off. Then followed the negro's capture and lynching.

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS.
Marion, Ind., March 9.—Miss Dottie Murden, aged 17, the daughter of Mrs. Mary Murden, a widow, was shot by Sanford Love, aged 27, her sweetheart, at the Marion home today.

Two bullets from a 22-calibre revolver entered the young woman's body. She died without making a statement. The shooting followed a quarrel, and Miss Murden was returning love letters when he shot her.

This is the second time Love has shot a girl with whom he was in love, having fired a bullet into the body of Miss Nora Miller, a waitress at the hotel hotel on June 8, 1907.

Miss Miller recovered and Love was acquitted by a jury on the plea that he was not mentally responsible.

After Love fired the two shots at Miss Murden today he threw down the weapon and ran halfway to the girl's home into the street, calling a passing delivery man to take him to the county jail, where he gave himself up.

CALENDAR BILLS

Interstate Commerce Bill Is Laid Over Until Next Monday.

PROBE SUTTON DEATH

Washington, March 9.—The senate devoted most of the day to the consideration of bills on the calendar. Among the measures passed were Senator Root's bill to license customs brokers, a bill by Senator Scott of West Virginia, authorizing the erection of buildings for the department of state, justice and commerce and labor at a cost of $12,000,000; a bill for a monument to be erected over the grave of Gen. James Shields at Carrollton, Mo., and a bill for a monument to Gen. John Stark of revolutionary fame at Manchester, N. H.

The senate took up the administration bill amending the interstate commerce law and agreed to make it the unfinished business, commencing with Monday. It was laid aside temporarily today to permit the consideration of the calendar and to make way for the Indian appropriation bill, which will probably be taken up tomorrow.

Senator Chamberlain of Oregon introduced a resolution authorizing an investigation by a joint committee to be composed of three senators and three representatives to inquire into the circumstances attending the death of Lieut. James Sutton, U. S. M. C.

The resolution was referred to the committee on naval affairs.
